----------------------	---	--

The following observations are additions to the last Email Hawkesbury Parish Council sent in October 2011.

The last animal movements Flexor Farm recorded were in 2009, hence up to then there had been agricultural compliance to the agricultural tie on the property. Even though the acreage of the holding is small, quality not quantity could be achieved. There has been agricultural business carried out up to 2009, Mr. Parsons in his statements has said he had pigs before sheep. There are many people who have two different types of jobs to pay the bills.

When a person retires and no longer works and they have been in agriculture for their working lives surely they can remain in their house, with the tie still on the property.

Hawkesbury Parish Council do not want to lose agricultural ties on dwellings as this makes it harder for our future generations to keep employed in the countryside and look after our landscape heritage.

- 4 Date of the next Parish Council meeting will be held on Monday 9th January 2012 in the upstairs meeting room at Hawkesbury Parish Hall at 7.30pm.
